SUMMARY

Full-stack engineer and startup partner with 10+ years' experience building and scaling production software across early-stage and growth-phase companies. Strong background in modern web and backend systems (Go, TypeScript, real-time architectures), with a focus on performance, maintainability, and clear product execution. Comfortable working across the stack - from low-level system refactors to UX and developer experience - while contributing to hiring, mentorship, and product growth. Grounded in psychology, with a practical, user-centred approach to building tools people actually adopt.
